

The Levine Family who has experienced the effects of Focal Segmental Glomerulosclerosis (FSGS) first-hand when Matthew was diagnosed at age three organizes "All in for a Cure". FSGS is a condition, which occurs when the protein leakage (termed Nephrotic Syndrome or NS) continues unabated and the kidneys scar. There is no cure for this condition and when treatment with steroids and other drugs fails, FSGS eventually destroys kidneys, leaving patients troublesome dialysis and/or kidney transplantation as their last resort for survival.
